

Delivering apprenticeship end-point assessment

Do you want to be involved as an organisation or as an assessor?

Funded by the Department for Education and commissioned by the Education and Training Foundation, new *Future
Apprenticeships* support packages are available to help you plan, prepare and start delivering independent apprenticeship end-point assessment.

Preparing and delivering end-point assessment

Packages of support to help you prepare to deliver end-point assessment

January 2017 to March 2018

This package is for organisations who:

1. want to apply to the Register of Apprenticeship Assessment Organisations
2. want to provide staff and resources to registered Apprenticeship Assessment Organisations
3. are looking to form collaborations to deliver end-point assessment

Topics will include:

- what an effective end-point assessment organisation looks like

- understanding assessment plans and their requirements
- designing and developing assessment methods and tools
- preparing and managing your assessors
- financial models, including costing, pricing, investment and break-even approaches
- internal and external quality assurance
- managing independence and conflicts of interest
- achieving consistency of end-point assessment including grading

This package includes a 1-day workshop, a 1-to-1 action-planning follow-up call with a programme facilitator and 10 online seminars on specific topics.

Support for assessors

Eight industry-focused Professional Dialogue Groups have been set up to explore the knowledge, skills and resources required by end-point assessors.

From March 2017, workshops will be launched for individuals to help them understand the role of the end-point assessor, including how to assess competence. The workshops will be based around a bank of industry-specific CPD materials produced through the Professional Dialogues.

Booking available from April 2017 here: futureapprenticeships.org.uk/courses/
